1. DEFINITIONS

Defined terms in the Standard Terms and Conditions have the same meaning in this Service Schedule unless expressed to the contrary. In this Service Schedule, unless the context otherwise requires:

Australia means continental Australia (including Tasmania) and for the avoidance of doubt may exclude offshore islands.

Customer means the Customer described in the Sales Order and any of its employees, sub-contractors, agents and representatives.

Data Pool means a shared allocation of Priority Data purchased by the Customer, which can be distributed across multiple terminals under the same billing entity. The Data Pool enables flexible use of Priority Data, allowing high-usage sites to draw from a central quota. Available both on a Local Plan and Global Plan.

Global Plan means a Service Plan authorised to operate across multiple countries or regions and on water. This plan is intended for use cases requiring international mobility, such as maritime or transnational connectivity.

Local Plan means a Service Plan authorised to operate within Australia only. Local Plans are suitable for fixed or mobile use cases within Australia. Under this plan, the terminal may roam or be relocated outside the Australian geographic boundary defined by Starlink's licensing and operational authorisations for 60 days only and it must be on land not sea.

Pause means a temporary suspension of a service during which the service is inactive, and no data usage is permitted. During a pause, billing will continue at the monthly pause fee unless otherwise specified in the applicable service plan. For the avoidance of doubt, this function is not offered under this Service.

Portal is where Vocus has granted the Customer login access in relation to the Services (currently accessible at <https://support.vocus.com.au/s/as>).

Priority Data means data traffic that is transmitted and received with higher priority across the Starlink network. Once a Service's Priority Data allowance is consumed, subsequent traffic will be treated as Standard Data unless additional Priority Data is purchased or a Data Pool allocation applies.

Resume means the reactivation of a previously paused service, restoring network access and functionality in accordance with the service plan and configuration. For the avoidance of doubt, this function is not offered under this Service.

Service means the Vocus supplied Vocus Satellite - Starlink - Data Pool service, as described in this Service Schedule (also referred to as Services).

Service Interface means the physical interface at the Service delivery point by which the Customer connects to the Service.

Service Plan means the service plan for the Service specified in a Sales Order.

Service Schedule means this Internet Service Schedule Via Vocus Satellite - Starlink – Data Pool - Australia – Service Schedule.

Small Business Customer means a customer who at the time of signing a Service Order (a) employs fewer than 100 people or (b) has annual turnover of less than AUD $10 million.

Standard Data means data traffic that is transmitted and received on the Starlink network which is less prioritised and will be subject to throttling and reduced performance. Standard Data is typically throttled to a maximum of 1 Mbps downstream and 0.5 Mbps upstream once the Priority Data threshold is exceeded.

Starlink Kit means Starlink satellite equipment and other equipment specified in the Service Order.

Terminal Access Charge means a per-terminal fee that enables connectivity to your Data Pool.

Vocus SLA means the Vocus service level agreement which can be found at <https://www.vocus.com.au/legal-contracts>, as amended from time to time.
